

The up-lifted serpent

(Numbers 21.4-9)

- Israel's rebellion and death.
- The simplicity of God's plan.
- The remedy bore a striking resemblance to the curse.
- Healing was universally available.
- One was required to respond in faith.
- Those who submitted were saved.
- Those who didn't were condemned to die.

The up-lifted serpent (Numbers 21.4-9)

- Israel's rebellion and death.
- The simplicity of God's plan.
- The remedy bore a striking resemblance to the curse.
- Healing was universally available.
- One was required to respond in faith.
- Those who submitted were saved.
- Those who didn't were condemned to die.

The up-lifted Savior (John 3.14-18)

- Our rebellion and death.
- The simplicity of God's plan.
- The remedy bears a striking resemblance to the curse.
- Healing is universally available.
- One is required to respond in faith.
- Those who submit are saved.
- Those who don't are condemned to die.

By His grace, God made provisions by which the Israelites could be saved from the deadly bite of the serpent if they would respond in obedient faith.

By His grace, God made provisions by which we can be saved from the deadly sting of sin if we will respond in obedient faith.