The Gospel Effect

Acts 8:1-25

I. The Joyful Impact of the Gospel

A. It produces a true joy that transcends, endures and perseveres all afflictions and circumstances (Acts 8:1, 4; I Pet. 4:12-14).

II. The Sufficiency of the Gospel

A. It is wiser and more powerful than man’s machinations to persuade people. So, it is all we need (Acts 8:9-13; cf. Mark 1:38; I Cor. 1:24-25).

III. The Persistent Need for the Gospel

A. Our need for the Gospel’s effect in our lives goes beyond just the moment of conversion. It is a lifetime of dedication (Acts 8:14-24; 26:20; Rom. 6:6).

WHO AM I IN THE BIBLE?

- I was one of the Minor Prophets
- I had a wife that was unfaithful; as a result, illegitimate children were born

Welcome!
 If you’re visiting with us today, we want you to feel welcome and we want you to feel like our honored guest! We also want you to know that all we’re interested in here at the Clarksville Church of Christ is the Truth. Jesus said, “You shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.” John 8:32. The truth He’s talking about is God’s word. Jesus said, “Sanctify them by thy truth, Thy word is truth.” John 17:17. Therefore we hope you’ll appreciate that we’ll give you book, chapter and verse from the Bible, the word of God, for everything that we say or do here today, so that everything that we do may bring glory unto God, I Peter 4:11.

“Shame” Examined

Jeremiah 6:15

I. Misunderstanding, Mistaking, and Misidentifying Shame

- A. The world boasts in shamelessness claiming that it shouldn't be felt in almost any circumstance. This can affect the Christian's mindset (Is. 5:20; Jer. 6:15; Hos. 4:6-7).

II. Be Ashamed...

- A. Of what the Bible condemns and views poorly — even when the world boasts in it (Rom. 13:13; I Cor. 6:9-10; Eph. 5:33; I Tim. 2:9; 5:8; Heb. 6:6; Rev. 3:18).

III. Don't Be Ashamed...

- A. Of what the Bible praises and exalts — even when the majority reject and repudiate it (Rom. 1:16; Phil. 1:20; I Thes. 4:3; 2 Tim. 1:8, 16; I Pet. 4:15-16).

Spiritual Food for Spiritual Thought Gray Areas

For much of my life I have been hearing about those “gray areas” in Bible teaching involving doctrine and morals. But in various essays on the subject I do not find scripture references either to identify or to prove the existence of such gray areas.

Instead, the Bible seems to draw a distinct line between right and wrong, truth and error, good and evil. In a series of rhetorical questions Paul asks, “What fellowship has righteousness with lawlessness? And what communion has light with darkness? And what accord has Christ with Belial? Or what part has a believer with an unbeliever? And what agreement has the temple of God with idols” (2 Cor. 6:14-16)?

John, who is often called the apostle of love, is especially given to speaking in “black and white” language. “God is light and in Him is no darkness at all. If we say that we have fellowship with Him, and walk in darkness, we lie and do not practice the truth. But if we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanses us from all sin” (1 John 1:6-9). According to John we either walk in light or we walk in darkness; there is no gray path. If there were a gray path we should still choose to “walk in the light.”

Granted, there are passages in the Bible that are hard to understand. But if the Bible reveals the mind of God (1 Cor. 2:6-14), there is nothing in it that is gray. Remember, “God is light and in Him is no darkness at all.” Conflicting views regarding God's will cannot both be true. We must “go back to the drawing board” and study carefully to learn the mind of God. “Therefore do not be unwise, but understand what the will of the Lord is” (Eph. 5:17).

A doctrine is not gray simply because it has produced controversy. In Jesus' day the Pharisees and Sadducees debated whether there was a resurrection; and it might have appeared to be a gray area since such knowledgeable people disagreed. But Jesus said to the Sadducees, “You are mistaken, not knowing the Scriptures nor the power of God” (Matthew 22:29). In the latter years of John's life there was controversy about whether Jesus was the Christ and had come in the flesh. John did not say this was a gray area. Rather, he said, “Who is a liar but he who denies that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist who denies the Father and the Son” (1 John 2:22); and “Every spirit that does not confess that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is not of God. And this is the spirit of the Antichrist, which you have heard was coming, and is now already in the world” (1 John 4:3).

If the fact that views differ about an issue makes it gray, with the possibility of opposing views being right, then the creation story, the virgin birth, the resurrection of Jesus, the inspiration of the scriptures and numerous other facts of our faith are in gray areas about which we cannot be sure.

To say that a thing is a matter of conscience is not to say that there are gray areas. Conscience cannot make a wrong thing right (Compare Acts 23:1 and 1 Tim. 1:15). Neither can it make a commandment of God wrong. It can only make an innocent thing (like eating meat) wrong for the person whose conscience is offended by eating it (Romans 14:17, 23). It is not that the thing itself becomes wrong.

It is a fact that Christians attain to different levels of understanding as they mature in Christ. Even Paul said, “Brethren, I do not count myself to have apprehended; but one thing I do, ... I press toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus” (Phil. 3:13-14). We must be patient with one another as we reach different stages in our press toward the goal. It is not ours to say that brothers and sisters are “going to hell” because they differ with us on a matter of right and wrong. It has been a long time since I have heard a Christian tell anyone he/she was going to hell for such reasons; in fact, I am not sure I have ever heard it. The grace of God is the only hope that any of us have, but grace is His to extend and not ours. And saying that one can be saved in violation of God's revealed will is judging just as surely as saying that such a one will be lost.

However, while avoiding any temptation to condemn others to hell, we must not allow either our humility or the hope of grace to prevent our speaking out against the sins and errors that we see. “And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather expose them” (Eph. 5:11).

Scriptures clearly predict the fate of those who walk in darkness, whether in morals or in doctrine. For example, “But the cowardly, unbelieving, abominable, murderers, sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars shall have their part in the lake which burns with fire and brimstone, which is the second death” (Rev. 21:8) And “Whoever transgresses and does not abide in the doctrine of Christ does not have God” (2 John 9). Scripture also requires us to “withdraw from every brother that walks disorderly and not according to the tradition delivered” by the apostles (2 Thess. 3:6).

All too often the “gray areas” are proposed in an effort to blend the truth of God with the errors of human doctrines, and to harmonize the morals of the kingdom of God with those of the world. This effort fits our post-modern culture, but not the unchanging word of God.
