

Can Satan Claim You As His Own?

Introduction:

A. To “lay claim” — to demand as being one’s due or property; to assert one’s right or title to.

B. Did you know that the idea of “laying claim” is also a Biblical concept?

I. “The Ruler Of This World Has No Claim On Me” (John 14:30)

A. Satan, the ruler of this world, did his worst at the cross.

B. Satan had no claim on the Son of God.

II. Satan: The Accuser Of The Brethren (Revelation 12:10)

A. Unlike his case with Jesus, Satan has a legitimate claim to my soul and yours.

B. In a time of judgment, there is no doubt that Satan can produce a list of offenses more than sufficient to prove his claim on all of humanity.

III. The Gospel: The Opportunity To Be Reclaimed (Romans 5:6-9)

A. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, the way of reconciliation to God has been opened.

B. All of which means, for the Christian, that the accuser has lost his claim!

Conclusion: Can Satan claim you as his own?
