

The Prattmont Church of Christ is just what the name suggests, a church that belongs to Christ. We are not a denomination; we are simply a group of Christians trying very hard to practice the teachings of our Head, Jesus Christ. The New Testament offers a complete pattern for what each local church should be like—its organization, its worship, its work, etc. We are committed to following that pattern. We cordially invite you to attend our services. We would also welcome any comments or questions about this bulletin.

TIMES OF SERVICES:

Sunday

Bible Study..... 9:00 A.M.
 Worship 10:00 A.M.
 Training Class5:00 P.M.
 Worship.....6:00 P.M.

Wednesday:

Bible Study 7:00 P.M.

Weekly Bulletin
 May 3, 2020

Love for All the Saints

by Bryan Gibson

Philemon wasn't partial—he loved all the saints (Philemon 1:5). And he didn't just feel it; he demonstrated it—"for we have great joy and consolation in your love, because the hearts of the saints have been refreshed by you, brother" (Philemon 1:7).

Other Christians in the New Testament were commended for the same thing: "...after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and your love for all the saints, do not cease to give thanks for you..." (Ephesians 1:15-16). "We give thanks...since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and your love for all the saints" (Colossians 1:3-4). "...for you yourselves are taught by God to love one another; and indeed you do so toward all the brethren who are in all Macedonia..." (1 Thessalonians 4:9-10).

Clearly, then, this is a point of emphasis in the New Testament. Do good to all the saints (Galatians 6:9-10)—not just family members, not just friends, and not just those you perceive to be the strongest.

Contact Information

Mailing Address

P.O. Box 680872
 Prattville, AL 36067

Phone Numbers

(334) 365-5887
 (334) 868-0801

E-Mail Address
Web Address

prattmont@gmail.com
 prattmontchurchofchrist.org

Here, then, are some ways YOU can show love to all the saints in your local church.

Nothing wrong with sitting in the same pew or chair at every worship service (hopefully soon!), but don't talk to the same people every time. Before and after worship services, move around and talk to different people. Get to know everyone. They need you, and you need them (Romans 1:12).

Don't think, though, this can all be accomplished at the place you meet for worship. After all, you are there primarily to worship God. Invite people into your home; in fact, make it your aim to have everyone in the church at some time or another. You'll get to know them a whole lot better in your home than you will at services. It's awful hard to "warn those who are unruly, comfort the fainthearted, uphold the weak" (1 Thessalonians 5:14) when you don't even know who they are. Hospitality is a wonderful way to fill the needs of your brethren (and them fill yours), not to mention it's a command (1 Peter 4:9). Let's be honest—there are just too many brethren we know only on a superficial level. We can do better!

Visit those saints who don't have as much contact with their brethren—the sick, the shut-ins, the elderly, etc. (Matthew 25:31-46; James 1:27). That's not exclusively the preacher's job or the elders' job; it's yours. These folks have special needs, and unless you have a real good excuse, it's your responsibility to fill them.

"Rejoice with those who rejoice, and weep with those who weep" (Romans 12:15). Don't be envious when good things happen to your brethren; instead, let them know just how happy you are for them. And in bad times, sympathize with them. Let them know you're there for them, that you'll do anything within your means to help them.

Use all the means you have at your fingertips to encourage all the saints—get well cards, phone, email, Facebook, Zoom, etc. Just don't convince yourself this is always the best way, because in most cases, nothing beats the opportunity to "speak face to face" (3 John 1:14).

Commend your brethren on a job well done. Such commendations are found throughout the New Testament, so don't ever question their effectiveness. Again, don't be partial; include men, women, and children in these commendations. Folks who excel spiritually need to be commended so that they "do not grow weary while doing good" (Galatians 6:9).

Pay special attention to new converts. This is all very new to them, including the people with whom they now associate. They'll need teaching, for sure, just like all of us, but they will also need a lot of encouragement. Make sure they know just how welcome they are in their new family.

Let your light shine! (Matthew 5:16; Philippians 2:14-16). Live for Christ! (2 Corinthians 5:14-15; Galatians 2:20). Give your family a living example of what it means to "live soberly, righteously, and godly" (Titus 2:14). "Resolve this, not to put a stumbling block or a cause to fall in our brother's way" (Romans 14:13). Give them a stepping stone, not a stumbling block.

"And may the Lord make you increase and abound in love to one another and to all, just as we do to you" (1 Thess. 3:12).

"By this all will know that you are My disciples, if you have love for one another" (John 13:35).

